Un arco iris en la oscuridad Simon and Schuster

El arco iris (1915) de D. H. Lawrence –que presentamos por primera vez íntegra en español, en nueva traducción de Catalina Martínez Muñoz– cuenta la historia de una familia a lo largo de tres generaciones, desde la década de 1840 hasta 1905. Del granjero Tom Brangwen y su mujer Lydia Lensky, viuda de un médico polaco, hasta su nieta Ursula, ya una joven con trabajo y estudios, describe el paso de una sociedad rural a una urbana e industrial con una sensibilidad en su día completamente nueva, y aún hoy enormemente original y sorprendente. Prohibida en su día por «obscena», la novela encuadra la saga familiar en los esquivos y neblinosos márgenes de la intimidad, en los que el autor se vuelca como ningún otro lo había hecho antes: es en la conciencia de sí mismos, en su aceptación o rechazo de las condiciones de la vida en pareja, y de todo lo que ésta crea y destruye, donde los personajes se definen, huyen o se atrapan, viven y evolucionan. «Cuerpos y almas son lo mismo», dice Lawrence: ¿es posible, pues, encontrar un sitio para la sexualidad no solo en la naturaleza, sino en el orden del conocimiento y hasta en la religión? Para sus personajes es decisivo descubrir la oscuridad, «dar el salto de lo conocido a lo desconocido», y toda la agitación y la voluptuosidad de este salto impregna cada una de las páginas de la novela.

En la mayoría de los casos, la noticia del nacimiento de un bebé en la familia es sinónimo de alegría y preparación. Pero, no todos los casos salen bien. En algunas ocasiones los padres no tienen a sus hijos en brazos. Se les llama huérfanos a los niños que han perdido a sus padres, pero ¿al revés? Los bebés arco iris representan la alegría y la realización de la frase “Todo saldrá bien la próxima vez” porque llegan después de la pérdida de un hijo no nacido. Este libro narra de una forma íntima, la experiencia de la autora que dedicó algunos años buscando una maternidad exitosa. Su viaje de autodescubrimiento, sus ilusiones y tristezas. Cada paso, caídas, cómo y quienes la ayudaron a levantarse. Al final, el arco iris llega a su origen, el cielo.

A novel based on the true story of how an advertising campaign caused the fall of Chile's dictator, General Pinochet Nico, the son of a noted Chilean philosophy professor, witnesses his father's arrest while he is teaching a class. Bettini, the father of Nico's best friend, is a leftist advertising executive who has been blacklisted and is out of work after having been imprisoned and tortured by Pinochet's police. This doesn't stop the ministry of the interior from asking Bettini, who is the best in the business, to come up with a plan for the upcoming referendum designed to say “yes” to Pinochet's next term. But just hours after he has been approached by the right, the head of the opposition makes him the exact same offer. What is Bettini going to do? Put his life on the line or sacrifice his political convictions? Finally he goes with the left. The next hurdle is finding a slogan that would be approved by the sixteen factions that comprise the opposition and who never agree on anything. Whiskey after whiskey, an idea finally emerges. This is a vivacious tale that examines how advertising and politics come together during the Pinochet regime. But this is also a coming-of-age story where we see through Nico's experience what it means to grow up in a country where nothing is allowed and almost any move can feel like an earnest act of resistance.
